Candidate for Republican Nomination for Governor Has Served Two Terms in Legislature and Two Terms in Congress. Had 2,019 Personal Letters Calling Upon Him to Run.

BY CHARLES D. KELLY
That port Frank B. Willis into the fight for Governor of Ohio.

What sort of Yankee is this candidate for the republican nomination?

These questions seem worth while for general public notice just now; since, for the first time in history, Buckeyes have on their hands the job of making a state nomination with the ballot.

Friends of primary reform dance with fire. They are sure that one up for each of the more important nominations, and they say this makes the test a real one—providing the people have a chance to learn something about the candidates.

Eight years of state service has acquainted thousands of people with Willis' public side. I determined to go "behind the people back home" and discover where the man has moved to discover the personal side.

There is nothing more interesting than "Just folks" and there is no better place to find a man out than among them. Frank Willis is a man who has lived in the hills of the Blue Ridge Mountains, and he has lived in the hills of the Blue Ridge Mountains.

The question was covered by 100 answers before the breath on it was dry. "He's a second McKinley," said one with a serious pound of his fist on a table.

"He's been advanced and tested in public life until now he's the best of the hour to lead the popular upland against the Cox rule. Two terms in the state legislature, two terms in Congress; a career of hard, successful work; and a life among the people; a record; 2,019 personal letters calling upon him to lead; 25,519 names for nominating petitions obtained; a campaign devoid of allances; a fight for public life, as leader, for the need of a man with a fight in him, fighting the battle this fall. A record of every big get-together Republican meeting this year; a favorite of all; a man who has the answer to what put into this campaign."

With these answers were being rattled off a big "Hello, Bill," chaste yet caustic in the hall. There were faces on the floor outside from feet of 250 pounds. It sounded like a boom.

The door opened. In stalked a six-foot, broad-shouldered, well-proportioned, black-haired, swarthy, fair-skinned man. "Hello, boys," said Willis, "I'm here on both hands and grabbing every news as he could all at the time, and heaming on everybody a hearty maintenance that carried the crowd of 100. 'You fellows are getting a too much hard this hot weather. Let's have the work go. My wife is expecting a boy. Have you seen her? Let's rest for a day while I go up and see my folks.'"

Willis had just returned from a campaign among southern cities. He was making three speeches a day.

Not the Worst Investment. Yet the woman who invested $25,000 in a factory is making a better investment than the politician who sticks his nose in the gutter and comes out with a Chicago News.

Variation Time Coming. A man going down the street one day with a French dictionary in his pocket and a French dictionary in his pocket. "Said he was a expert in the language from the board of education."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

The humble birthplace of Frank B. Willis, near Lewis Center, Delaware Co.

Willis casually named the owner of every farm and pointed out with gleam the old swimming holes in the Olen-tangy, where he had ducked many a fellow kid, and been ducked, too, long when he was a youngster he was slender as a rail and not the promise of a white hope he now is.

The car was stopped at a modest but homely little frame house north of the hamlet. Here is where the stork left Willis forty-one years ago—December 28, 1872. The farm is now owned by James Duckworth. Willis leaped out to say "hello" to Jim, got a drink from the old well, and the party around the farm yard and pointed out for not knowing as much about this place as others, because his father had moved when Frank was a child to a farm a mile south of Rome, Delaware county, where he was reared.

"But in this place I feel a sort of part-ownership," said Willis as he strolled back to the highway. "I helped my father and haul the gravel and stone and helped build it," he said. "I've been keenly interested in good roads ever since. The first speech I ever delivered, an old teacher friend down at Mount Vernon reminded me the other day, was a debate on 'Resolved, That the cost of pikes should be assessed against the abutting property owners.' I took the negative side."

I knew Willis did his own Congressional work with business dispatch, answering every letter on the day it was received, on the ground that a letter should be replied to as promptly as you would return a greeting on the street corner, but I asked him what his attitude was towards big business and business in general. Willis turned to the subject with enthusiasm. "My legislative record is not at all," he said, "the first thing to be done in this state is to bring order out of the chaos to which the Cox rule has brought government. If I become Governor, I shall be the executive and not try to be the legislative body also. Home rule for taxation must be restored. My advocacy for a business-like scientific tariff as a promoter of prosperity is known."

"I proposed and introduced in the House a bill now before the ways and means committee to create a bureau of government supplies to bargain for the supplies for all the departments. As it is now, there is a great waste of money through each department acting separately, some paying twice as much for the same thing as others, and no one getting the benefit of the large quantity purchase."

Willis was placed on the committee on interstate and foreign commerce. He was this place over thirty candidates and ahead of many members of longer service.

"My work in Congress has not all been bluff and business," he said, earnestly. "I've had a hand in humanitarian legislation. One of the first things I did when I went to Washington was to introduce a bill for the penalizing of Spanish-American war veterans, and the bill finally adopted was nearly a copy of that measure, but given a Democratic label."

"That speaking of business, many people are not to think the prosperity of business is a thing apart from the prosperity of other elements of citizens. Then, too, there are public men who never stop to think of farming as a business. It was here the value of the farm products of this state in one year is about $400,000,000. Standing second are the products of the foundries and machine shops, whose figure is about $150,000,000. The prosperity of any business is inseparable with all other businesses and when you wrong one, you affect the others. Industry and humanity must go hand in hand and neither be forgotten."

The above sketch of Hon. Frank B. Willis, one of the candidates for the republican nomination for governor, is reprinted from the Cleveland Leader, in order that Republicans may become familiar with the life and character of the man who seeks their suffrages. A review of the life of Hon. David Tod, another Republican gubernatorial aspirant, will be presented prior to the primaries. Sketches of other leading candidates for state offices, democrats and republicans, will appear from time to time, before the primary vote.

Mr. Willis is scheduled to be in Portsmouth next Friday evening and will remain the greater part of Saturday in the city in the interest of his candidacy. Just what his program will be has not been given out.

By this time the car was driving up to 82 Lincoln avenue, Delaware, the brick home of a retired farmer. Willis plunged out and ran in. Seizing a white-haired woman in his arms, he planted a hurried kiss and turned away. "Well, son, I know you'd be here," said the white-haired woman. "My, how dusty you are! Aren't you tired out and hungry?"

The eyes of the life Congressman glanced quickly about for another sign. "Oh, where is Helen?" he asked eagerly. "I thought she might come to introduce a bill for the penalizing of Spanish-American war veterans, and the bill finally adopted was nearly a copy of that measure, but given a Democratic label."

"That speaking of business, many people are not to think the prosperity of business is a thing apart from the prosperity of other elements of citizens. The prosperity of any business is inseparable with all other businesses and when you wrong one, you affect the others. Industry and humanity must go hand in hand and neither be forgotten."

Uncle Frank, who had come in, I had a chat with Mother Willis. "Frank's been away from home a long time," she said. "He left the farm to enter the university at Ada. It was expensive to get an education there, that's why he went to that place. He refused to take any money from father. I can tell him to this day standing up before me, that a boy and saying an education was worth nothing to him unless he got it himself. There was another thing (and here the mother chuckled). When a boy, Frank was rather mischievous, and he knew he could go to Ada without having to wear boiled shirts all the time."

Just then Willis reappeared in the room. "Now, mother, you've been telling tales about me," he said, with all love and no reproach to the big finger he pointed at her, and then patted her on the shoulder.

"I have one promise out of Frank during his campaign," said the mother; "that is that he'll come home on July the 26th, when we are going to have a family reunion."

"Yes," said Willis. "It's mother's birthday today; she is going to get on the river with her own hands. I won't give that day to any other purpose but to give to the President of the United States." And the campaign slogan known that he means it, for that day is scratched off on Mother's day on all the schedules.

Dear Miss Wise.—There are two boys in this town who flirt with my girl. How can I make them stop? If they don't there'll be something doing, believe me.

BOBBY.

Oh you Bobby! Don't do anything desperate. Of course if you are large enough and strong enough, you can hulk 'em, but that wouldn't keep the girl from flirting with other boys. Why not get a girl who is too much of a little lady to flirt with every boy she sees? Remember Bobby, boys won't flirt with a girl unless she helps him along.

Dear Miss Wise.—What do you think of a girl who just came to our city not very long ago and flouting that she could make a fool of the first fellow she met, she now thinks that every fellow who looks at her is stuck on her. Now Dolly, so much for that. But when she has the nerve to walk up in a fellow and tell him she knows he is stuck on her, I think it is a disgrace to us Portsmouth fellows. Now Dolly, I think you can say a word in favor of us home fellows.

DISCOURAGED ONE.

I can't say very much in defense of the Portsmouth boys, my friend, because every time a strange girl comes to town they "rush" her to death, as it were, and forget all about the tried and true Portsmouth girls. For the time being. Then in the course of a couple of weeks, the strange girl leaves town and laughing in her sleeve about how easy the boys of this town are, and how she made them spend their hard-earned money on her, when she didn't care a thing about them, and wouldn't have one of them in a Christmas tree. Perhaps the girl thinks all the boys here are just like the first one she met.

Dear Dolly, I have a girl friend who corresponds with a fellow in another city. How can I make her stop?

make her stop, Henry? She has just as much right to have another friend as you have to another girl friend.

Dear Miss Wise.—If children take salt heads in their mouth is there any danger?

MOTHER.

The heads might be harmed somewhat, but unless poisonous matter was used in coloring them, it would do no great amount of harm to the child. However, it's best for the kiddies to keep the heads out of their mouth.

Dear Dolly.—Does rough combing your hair injure it?

HELEN.

No. When brushing it out, however, be careful to brush it gently and get all the tangles out of it, without pulling out or breaking the hair.

Dear Miss Wise.—Please tell me how to clean Oriental rugs.

MRS. H. D. T.

Oriental rugs should never be beaten by careless or ignorant persons, in fact, it is safer not to beat them at all, for more rugs are injured through being improperly beaten than in hard service. The best way to clean them is to turn them right side down on the grass and tap them lightly with something flexible—a rat-tan or an old rubber hose cut in strips, for instance, and then to strip them hard on both sides.

with a dampened (not wet) broom. When they get very soiled or dirty, they should be sent to a reliable cleaner. Oriental rugs should not be packed away in a room for weeks and months at a time. They should be opened, swept and looked after at least once a week.

Dear Dolly.—Is there any harm in a young married woman writing to a young man friend, unmarried of course? I have a very dear gentleman friend in another city and would like to correspond with him if you think it would be the proper thing to do. Please advise me.

FRIENDLY WIFE.

According to my way of thinking it would be wrong for a married woman to correspond with a single man.

Would you care to have your husband correspond with a single girl, no matter how platonic their relations were? I think not. Then why do you want to do something that you would not be willing your husband should do? What interest could there be in any single young man carrying on a correspondence with a married woman? If he is young, it might harm him greatly; if he is old and more experienced than you, you would receive the harm. However, it has been tried often in this world, not to leave the shadow of doubt that it is a thing to be avoided as dyn- amite, so don't do it.

Nebraska Man Is After Ohio Wife; Must Be Pretty

Over in Fremont, Neb., there is a good looking, young man whose heart is craving for a soul mate. Albert Ballanger of that city, tired of the single life and no one to share his joys and sorrows is anxious to marry. He has written to the mayor asking for that chief executive to assist him in securing a wife.

"I hear you have more pretty women in Ohio and especially in Portsmouth than you know what to do with," writes Mr. Ballanger. "I am lonesome—awfully lonesome and would like to get into communication with some pretty girl who is looking for a good husband."

Mr. Ballanger is 28 years of age, claims he is a good tradesman and has other qualifications which would make some maiden an excellent husband. To reach him letters should be addressed to 245 West Fourth street, Fremont, Neb.

Prisoners In City Bastile Have Scrap

Events about police station were continued early Wednesday by a fist fight between two prisoners in the cage at the city prison. Bird Nelson, arrested on a disorderly charge upon the complaint of his wife, and Joe Ditz, the escaped prisoner of Wednesday morning, who was recaptured later in the day, became involved in a quarrel which led to blows. Before police officers could separate them, Nelson had badly pummeled his opponent, who emerged from the combat with a badly discolored optic and a swollen nose. Nelson was unharmed.

Sergeant Marshall and Night Jailer John Heisel parted the belligerents, having been attracted to the scene by the commotion in the prison. Nelson was put into solitary confinement after the trouble.

Squire Noel Runs Up Against Law

Squire Thomas Noel, prominent member of Clay township, is the latest victim of Officer Joe Bonzo's wrath. Mr. Noel was taken severely to task by Bonzo about four o'clock Thursday afternoon for leaving his horse and buggy standing on Sixth street while he attended to some business in the city. Bonzo claimed that the horse had been left standing too long.

Mr. Noel took up the matter with his old friend, the mayor, but was surprised when he found out that the mayor backed up Bonzo to the limit. He informed Mr. Noel that there were livery stables in the city where horses should be kept while their owners were in the city. Mr. Noel left the mayor's office in anything but a pleasant frame of mind, as he claimed that the only work performed by the horse is to take him back and forth between his home on the Chillicothe pike and the city.

A Message To Thin, Weak, Scrawny Folks

An Easy Way to Gain 10 to 20 lbs.
of Solid, Healthy, Permanent Flesh

Thin, nervous, undeveloped men and women everywhere are heard to say, "I can't understand why I do not get fat. I eat plenty of food, nourishing food." The reason is just this: You cannot get fat, no matter how much you eat, unless your digestive organs assimilate the fat-making elements of your food instead of passing them out through the body as waste.

What is needed is a means of gently urging the assimilative functions of the stomach and intestines to absorb the oils and fats and hand them over to the blood, where they may reach the starved, shrunken, run-down tissues and build them up. The thin person's body is like a dry sponge—eager and hungry for the fatty materials of which it is being deprived by the failure of the alimentary canal to take them from the food. The best way to overcome this sinful waste of flesh-building elements and to stop the leakage of fats is to use Sargol, the recently discovered regenerative force that is recommended so highly by physicians here and abroad. Take a little Sargol tablet with every meal and notice how quickly your checks fill out and rolls of firm, healthy flesh are deposited over your body, covering each bony angle and projecting point. Fisher & Streich and other good druggists have Sargol, or can get it from their whole salers, and will refund your money if you are not satisfied with the results in weight. It is inexpensive, easy to take and highly efficient.

Caution: While Sargol has produced remarkable results in overcoming nervous dyspepsia and general stomach troubles, it should not be taken unless you are willing to gain ten pounds or more, for it is a wonderful flesh-builder.

Walter Howard, aged 13, and whose parents reside on Union street, severed an artery in his left foot Wednesday night when he stepped on a broken bottle. Just a few weeks ago the lad fell and broke his right arm.

German Lads Are The Boys

(By Frank G. Menke)

New York, July 23. The Irish seem to be disappointed from baseball and their ancient and honorable enemies, the Germans, seem to be beating them. The Irish have lost the game of the day, and the Germans have won it. The Irish have lost the game of the day, and the Germans have won it. that included all hitters over 200 there were 55 names. The Irish had a somewhat better representation there than in the preceding year, but it wasn't enough to give the Irish cause for a celebration for once again the Germans outnumbered them. The list showed 20 names of Irish names against 20 of German names and 6 other names that sounded suspiciously German.

Four Australians Come To Capture Tennis Cup

The four Australians have won their way through the final competition to represent their country in the international competitions for the Davis cup. These men are not strangers to Americans. They are among the foremost players in the world and it will not surprise the tennis enthusiasts should they lift the cup, for at the present time some of the American players are very unsteady.

OFFICIALS VIEW LAND FOR GAME PRESERVES

For the purpose of looking into the availability of West Side land in the vicinity of Friendship for state game preserves, officials of state game department have been in the city for several days. They have viewed sites on the West Side and have also looked at property along Mun's Run, which is desirable for this purpose.

The officials, it is said, left the city Thursday without making known their recommendations after viewing State county land suitable for state game preserves. A number of these spots will be picked out and residents here are hoping that one will come to State county.

CHIMES ARE COMING IN SEPTEMBER

Is Napoleon Lajoie Slipping?

(By Frank G. Menke)

New York, July 23. Napoleon Lajoie, the Naps, slipping? Has Time at last dimmed the halcyon days of the man who ever with rank one of the greatest sluggers in baseball history? Is the first purple cast on the face of the star of 1903?

There are questions that astute eyes more than any other but there is none who doesn't hope that the slump of the veteran is but temporary and that instead of his career being ended by this slump, it will continue to flourish in the major league diamond for many years to come.

He has made a more miserable showing than any other player in the league, when he broke into the big league and set it on fire by his terrific hitting. Lajoie, according to the latest records, is about 50 points shy of the mark, and he seems unable to hit any more. He has hit only one home run in the last 100 at bats. He has hit only one home run in the last 100 at bats.

WILL JOIN NAPS

The Cleveland papers simply insist on raving over Billy Southworth. The sports writers claim that Southworth is undoubtedly the best all-around infielder in the American association. The tip is out that Southworth will later on join the Cleveland Naps. He will stick with the Beaneaters as long as they have a chance to cap the A. A. reg.

A Chirp About 1915

There is a strong possibility of Springfield and Zanesville coming into the Ohio State league next season. The league is to be revamped and the acquisition of these towns would make the Ohio State more compact and would increase its drawing powers as Springfield is about three times as big as Mansfield. It is likely that six clubs will comprise the league next year.

Ironton's Tennis Cracks Seek Match

Ironton, O., July 23.—Although it is not generally known, Ironton has one of the best amateur tennis players in this section of the country, one who has defeated the best of tennis players that Ohio State University had to offer, as well as other Columbus tennis stars. This person is Dudley Moxon, an O. S. U. student, who is defeating all comers on the Iron City court on South Sixth street.

LIKES THE OLD TOWN

"You have one of the best minor league towns in the country here. I am much impressed with the hustling spirit in evidence in your city. It is small wonder that the fans so loyally support your ball club."

So spoke Secretary Shells of the Lexington club while in a tanning bed at the Washington hotel Wednesday night. "It is always a pleasure for me to come to your city."

JUST A RUMOR THAT'S ALL

A widespread story is being sent out from Cincinnati to the effect that Federal agents are hot on the trail of pitcher Ted Tolan and outfielder Jack Murray of the Giants and Third Baseman Bert Nichols of the Reds. There is about as much truth in the rumor as there would be in a report that Ironton had been purchased by the Ohio State moguls. Just about as much.

Fireman Resigns

Charles Campbell, former well-known trainer, tendered his resignation as driver of the Seventh street fire company, to Safety Director Lake Thursday morning. Campbell has secured a position as horse-trainer at the Lima, O., race track and will leave within the next few days to assume that position. His successor has not yet been appointed.

WILL PROBE NOISE

Mayor Frick has received notice from the State Public Utilities Commission that a representative of that Commission will arrive in Portsmouth within the next few days to make investigation of the complaint that the street cars of this city make too much noise while in operation. Attention of the Commission was called to the complaint by the mayor in a letter written during the latter part of June.

PLAN NEW STREET

President Thomas Bennett of the county commissioners has addressed a letter to Mayor Frick, requesting him on behalf of the board to recommend to city council that the city purchase a strip of ground at Lee western extremity of the city between Front and Second streets to be dedicated for street purposes. The purpose is to widen the alley at that point to a width of 50 feet, so as to provide a direct approach to the new bridge which will be built across the Scioto river.

WILL INSPECT PAVING COSTS CITY NOTHING

Mayor Frick, Service Director Higgins and Safety Director Lake, who comprise the Board of Control, and City Engineer Wilhelm left Thursday afternoon for Cleveland, where they will inspect the brick paving in the Forest City. Construction of the brick paving job will also accompany the trip. The object of the trip is to determine the best method to follow in paving Gallia pike and the other streets upon which work will start within the next few weeks. Returning, the party will visit Toledo and Columbus on a similar mission.

ON THE TRAIL OF MISSING HUSBAND

Agnes Miller, a former resident of this city, but now living with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Moore, of South Webster, was a caller at the mayor's office Thursday morning to enlist the aid of the local authorities in the search of her husband, Douglas Miller, whom she claims abandoned her several weeks ago. Mrs. Miller is of the opinion that her husband is now located in Cincinnati, and the authorities of that city will be asked to locate him if possible. If apprehended he will be brought back to this city to answer to a charge of non-support. He formerly worked for Philip Last of this city.

H. E. Dodge Married At Zanesville, Ohio

Harris E. Dodge, a former resident of Wheelersburg, and who has numerous friends in Portsmouth and Scioto county, was married last Saturday to Miss Pearl Crozier of Dresden, Ohio. ## BIG RUMPUS OVER THE ENDORSEMENT OF JUDGES

LOCAL REPUBLICANS SPLIT; FACTIONS ARE IN MIDST OF FIGHT

The remnants of the old Republican machine which had been carefully gathered up and glued together by Attorney Charles E. Hard, and started out on a new career on the broad political highway under his expert direction, met with a sad accident Wednesday evening. It blew a casing and in spite of the most desperate efforts on the part of Chauffeur Hard, skidded into a ditch, turning over on one side, while one of the passengers, Judge William H. Middleton, of Pike county, candidate for membership on the court of appeals, was thrown out on his head. He suffered serious bruises, but the full extent of his injuries has not yet been determined.

Innocent bystanders say that the accident was due to former cronies of Chauffeur Hard throwing a package of tanks along the highway with the full design of causing him trouble. Said ex-cronies, when interviewed, admitted the allegation, and gloried in their achievement. They averred that Chauffeur Hard had not been at the throttle for eight years, that since coming back into the game he had not secured a license, that the old style one-lung machine had no business on the highway in these six cylinder days, and that anyway he ought to have been more careful as to whom he took joy riding in his machine.

And the last allegation was the meat in the cause of the disaster. It was the picking up of Judge William H. Middleton by Chauffeur Hard and his one lung car that caused the tanks to be spilled on the highway and started a lively political row among Scioto county Republicans, the end of which is not yet in sight.

To begin with the trouble is all about the non-partisan court of appeals. In their ambition to be strictly non-partisan the Democrats have no candidate for the vacancy. There are two Republican candidates, Hon. Peatus Walters of Circleville, who has served on the old circuit court, and Hon. William H. Middleton, of Pike county, who has served on the common pleas bench. There seems to have been a tacit understanding between these two that the one receiving the least votes at the Republican primary in August shall retire and the other have an open field, the nomination being equivalent to an election. Both candidates have been doing some quiet hunting and within the past few days Scioto county has become the storm center of the battle.

The great majority of the lawyers here long ago endorsed Judge Walters for the position, and they are still of the same of the central committee of their party. They were backed up by other influential party leaders and all with one voice shouted that a great blunder had been committed, that the judiciary had been dragged into politics and that the central committee had no business no how to butt in.

The sequel came Wednesday evening when the republican executive committee, the controlling committee of the party, held as hurried and as quiet a meeting as had the central committee. This committee consists of Sam M. Johnson, chairman, William R. Sprague, Albert Pyles, A. T. Holcomb, Ralph Calvert, Henry T. Dannon and Cliff Smith. At this meeting steps were taken to undo the action of the central committee and that body was humbled a gentle slap on the wrist, the following resolutions being adopted. It is said that there was some discussion, and no statement was made as to the vote. But the resolutions as adopted are given below and they speak for themselves. Here they are:

Whereas, the Republican County Central Committee of this county, on Saturday, July 18, 1914, adopted a certain resolution endorsing the candidacy of Honorable W. H. Middleton for Judge of the Court of Appeals; and

Whereas, the Republican Executive Committee of said county believes that such action was taken without a due and proper appreciation of the functions and duties imposed upon said County Central Committee by law, and that there is no authority in the law creating said committee for the passage of such a resolution;

Now, therefore, be it resolved that the Republican Executive Committee of Scioto County does hereby respectfully protest against the action of the County Central Committee for the reason that the same is not authorized by law, and is contrary to the spirit of our institutions providing for the selection of the judiciary, which is non-partisan. And, be it further resolved, that the Executive Committee, in so far as it is empowered to speak, expresses the hope that such action will not influence the Republican voters of this county in their choice of candidates for the Court of Appeals; and we further urge every Republican in this county to express at the polls his own individual preference.

The next move in the row will be awaited with interest. As it now stands, Middleton has the endorsement of the Republican Central committee, while Walters has that of the members of the bar and of the executive committee.

Domesticated Canaries.
There are 12 distinct breeds of canaries. About 500 years ago a Spanish sea captain brought from the Canary Islands some insignificant little greenish birds which were called canary birds, and from these have been evolved the 12 species or varieties of canaries known to the breeder of today.

BOARD NOT IMPRESSED WITH CONCRETE FILLER

Members of the Board of Control returned home late Wednesday afternoon from Ashland, Ky., where they inspected paved streets in the construction of which concrete filler was used. The impression of the local officials was not altogether a favorable one, it being claimed that the bricks in the streets have a tendency to bulge out in warm weather, and leave the solid foundation underneath. The noise of traffic has a sound similar to that when passing over a tunnel, the officials say. The streets, however, were in splendid condition, otherwise, and eminently satisfactory to the citizens of the neighboring city.

At the request of advocates of the concrete filler method, however, the Board are in Cleveland inspecting the streets of that city. They were accompanied by Fred L. Manning, salesman for the Peabody Paving Brick company of this city, who is a firm believer in the grant filler process.

It developed Wednesday that the expenses of the trips are being borne by the National Association of Brick Manufacturers, and not by the city of Portsmouth. This association has set aside a fund to be used in exploiting streets paved by the concrete method. Mayor Frick announced Wednesday evening that he is paying his own expenses on the trips.

Minister Invites "Swiss Navy" to America

George A. Stovall, minister to Switzerland, has just started the State Department, Secretary Bryan and all Washington have learned that Minister Stovall recently presented to the foreign office of the Swiss government a courteous invitation for "Swiss" to take part in the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco.

Columbus, July 23.—"The public school, universities and normal schools will receive from the state the coming year more than $1,000,000 in excess of the amount received last year," declared State School Superintendent Frank W. Miller, in a statement issued Thursday. The public schools get the bulk of this increase. The statement was issued to correct the impression that prevails that the reduction in the state school purposes would cut down the amount the schools would receive. The statutes make it mandatory to pay the schools $2 for each pupil enumerated, and if the state levy does not equal enough to pay this what is needed in addition will be taken from the state treasury surplus. "The schools will not suffer for reason of the cut because they will get more funds than heretofore, only a part of the money will come from the corporation taxes paid into the treasury, thus reducing the amount paid by individual taxpayers," said Superintendent Miller.

Governor Cox will soon fill the vacancies on the board of trustees of the Ohio State University caused by the expiration of the term of Walter Sears of Columbus and of the death of the late John T. Mack of Sandusky who was appointed on the board by McKinley when he was governor to fill a vacancy caused by the death of the late President Rutherford B. Hayes, who became a member of the board after retiring from the national presidency. John Cunningham of Cleveland, editor of the Ohio Farmer, and "Alfalfa" Joe Wing of Mechanicsburg are being considered for one of the places.

Three states lead Ohio in the number of automobiles, according to reports received by State Registrar J. A. Shearer of the state automobile department. Close to 110,000 automobile licenses have been issued by the department so far this year, and it is expected that the total number for the year will reach 125,000. New York comes first in the number of automobiles, having thus far this year issued 150,151 licenses. Illinois is second with 116,100 and Pennsylvania third with 114,078. Ohio comes next. Indiana has issued 55,000 and New Jersey 49,567.

Many festive automobiles in Ohio are attempting to dodge taxes and county taxing officials are beginning to get busy in ferreting them out. In some counties it is estimated that hardly half of the total number of autos have been returned voluntarily by their owners and because the discrepancy can be easily determined, the taxing authorities purpose to get back at the evaders. Every auto in the state bears a license tax and is registered with the secretary of state. Thus the machines can be hidden only temporarily, for if they do not appear on the return sheet of the tax paper, they are certain to be found by examination of the state records. Such an examination would involve some clerical work but would doubtless be profitable from the standpoint of the tax ferret. Of course there is always a question arising as to the value of any machine at less than one-half of their purchase value and these owners are maintaining that any brand new machine depreciates one-half the moment it reaches the buyer. Naturally there is a great variety of opinion on this question and the taxing officials are wading through with much emphasis.

Ohio's road building activity, which with probably one exception would have forgotten the incident, that the State Department, having state in the Union, in all probability of Mr. Stovall's invitation, ability will be shown in moving forward here to withdraw from the pictures at the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco next year, meantime process. Mr. Stovall, Mr. D. B. Torpy, directing emissaries in a formal letter.

DEMOCRATS OF SCIOTO COUNTY AND THE SIXTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

Upon the resignation of Senator Mooney, Chairman of the Finance Committee, the Senate by a unanimous vote elevated Senator Hudson to the Chairmanship. This carries with it membership of the State Emergency Board, consisting of the Governor, Attorney General, Auditor, Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and Chairman of the House Finance Committee.

This Board makes emergency appropriations when the Legislature is not in session.

Chairmanship of the Finance Committee carries with it membership on the Board of Apportionment, consisting of the Budget Commissioner, Attorney General, Auditor, Chairman of Senate and House Finance Committee.

This Board is authorized under the law to transfer funds from certain appropriations of any department or bureau to other funds for the department or bureau.

The State Auditor, together with the Chairman of the Senate and House Finance Committee, is a special committee to investigate all sundry and deficiency appropriations before there is any disbursement.

These three boards perform the functions of the legislature so far as the State's finances are concerned, when that body is not in session.

You must judge of what he can and will do by what he has done in the Ohio General Assembly.

Vote for J. I. Hudson for promotion to Congress.
